To select an application, click Warning: Do not choose Firefox to always open a certain file type, as doing so can cause a problem where Firefox repeatedly opens empty tabs or windows after you click on a link.. This article will describe how Firefox handles downloads for different types of files and how you can change that behavior.

The screenshot shows the Firefox Preferences window, specifically the General tab. The browser's address bar displays "about:preferences". The left sidebar contains navigation options: General (selected), Search, Privacy & Security, and Firefox Account. The main content area is titled "General" and includes a search bar "Find in Preferences". Under the "Startup" section, the checkbox "Always check if Firefox is your default browser" is checked. Below this, a message states "Firefox is not your default browser" with a "Make Default..." button. The "When Firefox starts" section has three radio button options: "Show your home page" (selected), "Show a blank page", and "Show your windows and tabs from last time". The "Home page" section shows the URL "http://www.filehorse.com/" in a text input field, with buttons for "Use Current Page", "Use Bookmark...", and "Restore to Default". A watermark for "filehorse.com" is visible in the bottom left corner, and the text "© Firefox Support" is partially visible.

The Media type, also called the MIME type or Content type, as configured by the web server, will determine what action Firefox will take.. Click the menu button and select In the General panel, go to the Applications section.. Any changes you've made will automatically be saved When you click on a link for a type of file that doesn't have a set content type and download action, Firefox will ask you how to handle the file:Open with: Saves the file to a temporary folder and opens it in the default application for that file type.. Download Mozilla Firefox, a free Web browser Firefox is created by a global non-profit dedicated to putting individuals in control online.. The Action column will give you a drop-down menu, with options on action to take, whenever you click that type of file.. This can be useful if Firefox is automatically saving a file type or is always opening it with a certain program and you want to be asked what to do.. For example, Firefox may display the content as plain text instead of opening the file in an application or asking you what to do.
